Erin Coleman

JUL 15, 1928 - MAY 5, 2025

Miss Erin Luanne Coleman, born on July 15, 1928, in Miami, Florida, passed away on May 5, 2025, in Tamarac, Florida.

A lifelong lover of music, Erin attended Miami Senior High before pursuing her passion at the Juilliard School, where she completed her studies in the 1950s. Her love for opera shaped her life, leading her to record music while in New York City.

She later settled in Atlanta, Georgia, where she found immense joy and fulfillment as a dedicated voice teacher. Erin was deeply committed to her students and maintained lasting friendships with many throughout her lifetime.

She was predeceased by her brother, D.C. Coleman, Jr., and her sister, Lois Coleman VanDame. Erin leaves behind a cherished legacy through her four nieces and one nephew, as well as numerous great-nieces, great-great-nieces, and great-great-nephews.

Her wisdom, warmth, and passion will be profoundly missed by all who had the privilege of knowing her. A Celebration of Life will be held in Atlanta, Georgia, in June.

Happy Birthday to you, dear Erin, in Heaven. it's very hard to say goodbye to someone you've loved all your life. When I was a little boy I looked so forward to your visits from Atlanta, and you would take me to see movies that my mother disapproved of, and we'd have lunch somewhere in Coral Gables. even years later I would still look forward to seeing you at least once a year in New York. Now that you're in the next world, I'll look forward to seeing you again once more. Being on this earth doesn't seem quite right with you not on it. all my love forever, xo Brien
